LessesThis book is a continuation of the series by these two distinguished authors on the glass industries of Sandwich, Mass. At the end of the volume I was surprised to learn that the Boston Sandwich factory was reborn 4 times and finally closed in 1907. Some of the later production even included making electric light bulbs. In the back of the book are details and pictures about Edison's patent for these.

Overall, the material in this is quite different from what I read in the other books.0 of 0 people found the following review helpful. love it.By richard danaGreat.0 of 0 people found the following review helpful. Five StarsBy gerald millergood

This book presents 228 numbered color photographs from seven chapters of Volume 2 including kerosene and suspension lamps, lanterns, smoke shades, bells, gas lighting devices, and electric lighting.
